Lior is one of Australia's highest selling, most compelling independent artists, pioneering his own unique style of Epic Folk.

Lior burst onto the scene with his stunning debut album 'Autumn Flow' back in 2005. The self-financed album – which perfectly showcased Lior's rich voice and enchanting musical arrangements, as well as subtly reflecting his Middle Eastern heritage – in time became one of the most successful independent debut releases in Australian history, garnering Lior three ARIA nominations (including Best Male Artist) and a swag of other awards, including a prestigious Australian National Radio 'J Award' nomination for Album Of The Year. 'Autumn Flow' has since exceeded Platinum sales.

Further adding to Lior's overall appeal is his highly-acclaimed live show, his laid-back charm and charisma coupled with his furious touring ethic, causing demand to flourish to the extent of a live album release 'Doorways Of My Mind' shortly after the release of his debut. Rolling Stone magazine describes Lior as being “..one of Australia's best live acts.”

However, it is not only Australia who has fallen head over heels for Lior's distinctive allure. He has created a fertile pasture for himself throughout the UK, with his single 'This Old Love' being added to the BBC RADIO 2 Playlist. The single's high rotation caused it to find its way onto the UK airplay radio charts and into the Top 50 airplay charts. Lior has also started to frequent NYC and the US, where an underground fan base is steadily growing.

When time came to build on this solid foundation, Lior spent the bulk of 2007 working on his second album 'Corner Of An Endless Road', a move that has reaped handsome dividends. The album, released in mid 2008 debuted at #1 on the Independent charts, and #2 on the Australian albums charts.

Lior is a musician whose music gives more than it takes, offering a spiritually enriching experience for all involved and a reminder of a time when the music came first, and everything else was secondary.
